

the AMERICAN of the MEDICAL
JOURNAL SCIENCES

March 15, 2026

Dear SSCI Members and Journal Contributors,

The American Journal of the Medical Sciences (AJMS), the official journal of the Southern Society for Clinical Investigation (SSCI), is seeking articles for upcoming issues. The AJMS publishes work that addresses clinical and translational topics related to adult internal medicine and its subspecialties. Editorials, commentaries, letters-to-the-editor, full length articles, and reviews are welcomed. Note that SSCI members are not asked to pay for page charges which typically are $40 per page. If you are interested in submitting an article, it can be submitted to the following Journal link:

We continue to receive over 1,400 submissions per year. The journal is in the process of recruiting new deputy editors, editorial board members, and reviewers. If you are interested in any of these positions, please contact us via email (halcombch@amerjmedsci.org); provide a short comment summarizing your background and interests in addition to an updated curriculum vitae.

We commit to continuing to serve our SSCI members and global audience. I look forward to receiving your comments for open positions and your journal submissions, which I predict will further enhance the quality of the AJMS, a journal that has remained a repository of American medicine for 200 years.

Sincerely,

Jesse Roman, MD, FSSCI
Editor-In-Chief
